Happy Birthday Marites.. Today should be your 43rd birthday. Although you are not here for us to celebrate with physically, I know you are here with us in spirit. I want you to know that every time someone compliments Nicole and Clayton I think of you. You are the main reason they are such good kids. Nicole is turning out to be such a beautiful young lady and I can't tell you how many people tell me how much she reminds them of you. Not just physically but she has your good heart. They are both doing so good or as well as could be expected and I know you know we think about you everyday. So Happy Birthday again!!! We love you and miss you very much!!

I first met Marites at Genentech where I worked for nearly 2 yrs. She was wonderful to work with. I've never met anyone so kind, so sweet, so nice. She helped train me and I am forever grateful for that. We would always chat in the break room about family, life, work etc. When I heard the news that she passed away, I was just crushed, and just so hurt. Words can't express the huge loss that we have endured. God called her home when we weren't ready to let her go. My deepest sympathy goes out to the Basilio family, friends and all who loved her. I would give anything to just see her beautiful smile one more time because her smile would light up the whole room. I know she's looking down on us smiling so I will forever carry her smile, and her memory in my for the rest of my life. We love you, and miss you dear friend. May you rest in peace.

I came to this site last week and was reading these wonderful things about Marites and I decided to add something myself. I did not know Marites very well but would see her in the cafeteria and she was always so nice seeing that my daughter Jamie is in Clayton's class at St. Gabriels and my older daughter is a Sophomore at Mercy. She would always ask me how my daughter liked Mercy etc. After reading all of these wonderful testimonials, I wish I had gotten to know her better. I was shocked when my daughter told me what happened right before New Year's – I was praying it was a mistake. To Nicole and Clayton, it is very difficult for you now no doubt but with each day, it will get a little easier but it takes time. I unfortunately experienced the same thing at a young age and was Nicole's age when I lost my mom. It sounds as if you have a great support system and many people who love you, care for you and are praying for you. To your whole family, know that the prayers continue and Marites, rest in peace.##imported-begin##Linda Ramos##imported-end##

I only know Marites briefly through our kids school. Clayton & my daughter, Jalyn are in the same grade. Marites introduced herself while standing next to me during the St. Gabriel Halloween Parade 2008. A very sweet & genuine impression she made. I remembered she was wearing a black cat's outfit for a party she said her company was having, Genentech. Ironically, one year later, I landed a job at Genentech. Unfortunately, never seen her after that parade. When Jalyn told us of Clayton's moms passing ... I was totally in disbelief & still am. Our condolences goes out to the Basilio & Miranda Family. May her memories always stay strong & alive in your hearts & mind. Rest in peace, Marites. The Basconcillo Family Ulysses, Carol, Lauren (SG '04), Paris (SG '09) & Jalyn (SG '13)

Dear Marites, So much sadness has been shared amongst so many people who you had touched with your presence, during your short life. I remember when I first started chatting with you when I was helping Lucentis in 2006. You had a unique ability to share your warmth and kindness to others, in such a genuine manner. We will think of you now spreading your light and your warmth through the morning sun and evening moon. May you rest in peace, and may god bless your family during this difficult time. Amarjit

Dearest Marites, I will cherish the many talks we had about our sons and your daughter. Your beautiful smile and humble heart has truly blessed my life. Even Jay remembers you and said how you were always nice to him when he came to work. He started reminiscing the times he would play with your son in the break room. We never know when its our time to go and it reminded the both of us to not take our love for granted....I believe you are in a better place, a place where there is perfect peace where hearts are free from care. I know that this is not the end and that someday we will meet again. Thank you for being a great friend! May God keep your children and family in his care throughout this difficult time! Our deepest condolences to the Basilio Family and the Miranda Family. What to write, what to say, what to do... We're aware that there are no words that can ease the pain of the loss of Marites... yet, we wanted to express to you that our thoughts are with you. Dear Marites, I'm still in disbelief that you have left the earth that we shared. It's been a while since we've seen each other but I hope you knew that I thought of you often. I remember our last telephone conversation... where we both promised to make it a point to make time to get together more often. Yet, between one thing and another... months and months would pass by. I will always treasure the memories of our one-on-one conversations, our high-tea times, the baby showers, the different occasions that we shared and as many have written... I will always remember your smile. Your memory will live in our hearts forever. I'll miss you, Suzanne. Dearest Nicole and Clayton, We are so so very very sorry for the sudden loss of your mom ;(We can not imagine what you must be going through. No words can express the feeling that runs through us upon thinking of you both... Yet, please know that our thoughts are with you and we send you both with every ounce of our souls... positive thoughts and the strength to work through the emotions that must run through you... With love and the warmest of thoughts, Auntie Suzanne, Austin and Auntie Tiana

Marites, when I heard the news i was so sad. It has been quite sometime since we last spoke or saw eachother but know you have always been in my thoughts. You have always been an amazing person. Wonderfully sweet, non judgemental, always there for your friends and family and smiling consistently. There was only one time where you came to my office in tears. You needed to talk and that talk will always be between you and I. I pray for your family and children through this very hard time and I know that your children will grow to be amazing people because of the kind of mother and friend you are. I say are because even though you are not here in body anymore, your spirt will live on forever in our hearts. God Bless Marites.

Hi Tetch,I don't know what to say. You were like a sister to me and now you're gone. I never expected this day to come so soon. I can't even really believe I'm typing this message into a d*mn keyboard & anticipating posting it on some foolish public internet forum. Not something that would've ever been a thought with us kids growing up together on 48th Avenue in the Sunset.I'm kind of numb to tell the truth. Losing you was a hell of a horrible way to end the year. I'm not sure when this will all hit me nor how hard. I expect I will bear this in my heart for a very long time. I do know that I miss you terribly. As you can see, I'm somewhat at a loss for words. I'll just leave it at this, or else find myself having to explain to my co-workers why this guy is starting to cry while typing at his computer...I love you and will always miss you, Tetchie.Love,Dino##imported-begin##Dino Nartea Makabenta##imported-end##

It's Been Awhile
How truly long is awhile?
With moments gone since last we seen,
Each other face-to-face and smile.
A kiss on the cheek, "How have you been?"
Remember all the times we shared?
The parties and the laughs so fun,
With friendship and support; nothing compared,
All the cherished memories unlike none.
A lot has happened since last, New jobs, marriage, and children.
The clock ticked quickly, time went past;
I took for granted our paths would cross again.
My children have not met you,
The albums and pictures they will see.
Others will share stories of love too,
They will know you best through your progeny.
It has been awhile as there was no duty.
Friendships time will always test.
I remember your toughness, honesty, and beauty,
Those memories can never be put to rest.

I thought this morning of an Arab saying, "God could not be everywhere; therefore he made mothers". Marites will be missed by her two children forever now that she has left this earth. But as their mother, she will still protect & love them for eternity. Our hearts ache to know the pain Nikki & Clayton feel with the loss of Marites. Our family extends all our thoughts & love to them during this time. Nikki has made Ali laugh (hysterically often) – for years & their friendship has been an anchor for Ali always. Marites, you touched my life when you were here, and with your passing you gave me another priceless gift. You reminded me how important it is to live my life to its fullest. How, like you, it is so important to keep a smile on my face and be grateful for everyone and everything around me. Anytime we crossed paths you would always have that shy but powerful smile across your face. You would take the time for a chit chat so we could catch up with each other and have a few smiles and giggles for a moment. I am so blessed to have had the opportunity to have you in my life, you are truly inspiring and your spirit will never be forgotten. You will forever be my angel. Since getting the call on Tuesday morning, it feels as if I'm still waiting to wake up from this terribly sad nightmare. To me, you will always be one of my dear friends. Our afternoon talks are forever embedded in my memory. I'll forever think of you every time that Sheryl Crowe song "Are you strong enough to be my man" plays. You must have played that song hundreds of times from your computer. Marites, to me, you will forever represent sweetness, loyalty, awesome thick hair, and your funny one-liners. You were the quiet type, but when you did speak, you would come up with some funny opinion or thought. I love you. I will forever love you. You were one of the few people I felt safe talking to. You never judged, and ALWAYS had my side. As 4pm would come on practically every afternoon, I'd walk to the other side of my cubicle wall and sit with you talking about WHATEVER was on our minds. I'm crying as I'm typing this because... I'll never walk you to your car after work again.
