just found out tonight your with God and Gail and the angels. You were a blessing to know. I remember taking you to one of the airport trips we had with you and they lost your wheel chair and meds. You went to see your daughter. And when you returned you said I was a good thing that went right and explained how they had to give you a loaner wheel chair till they brought you yours. You never were harsh with them nor complained. You had the most patience with people. Unlike anyone I've ever met. You always were kind and sweet and so beautiful. I am proud to have known a one in a Million Beauty like you. God has another angel, Say hi to Gail for me. Know we all will miss you very much.

There are so many great memories that I had with my grandma and it's so hard to believe that she's gone. She was always so happy and optimistic. She was one of the many people that have made me a better person. I still can't believe she's gone.
