Edward chin was a good friend of mine. We went to school together at Everett middle school. He was being harassed in the schoolyard daily, I saw that and put that to an end to it. But after that point we both knew that we couldn't go to school anymore, so we just skipped out decided to become fishermen. I befriended Edward and we became the best fishing buddies. He came from a big family with many sisters and a brother. His dad was really tough, I think he worked for the phone company or something. His home always smelled like the best Chinese food ever. I was looking him up and found this that he had passed I'm very sorry to hear this it hurts me inside to have gained this knowledge before I had a chance to talk to him again. I feel like an important part of me of me has died with him.
