“ My dad was the best dad ever. I can't believe he's gone. I miss him so much, life just isn't the same without him. My mom always would tell him that he was the one that made the house a home and made it feel a happy place and it's true because without him it's so lonely. My dad was such a hardworking man, at his age you would think he was around 40 because he would climb trees and always doing yard work nonstop he always had something to do something always needed fixing and my dad was always on it. I have so many wonderful memories of him that maybe one day I'll share but I would prefer to keep them to myself because that's something that I want for myself. I just wanted to post something here so it wouldn't be so lonely because my dad was loved and always will be. Although he no longer here with us he's always in our hearts and our minds and he's the best dad ever and always will be to me. Te amo y te extrañamos mucho papi siempre estaras en mi corazon, nos veremos en el paraiso.

I just found out that Eladio passed away. I'm deeply sad. He was working at Cypress when i joined Cypress and he was always willing to help. My husband and i worked with him at Cypress for many years. Hablabamos en español de vez en cuando. For a short while i had to deliver and pick up samples from Intermolecular last year and i was happy to go and had the oportunity to say hi to Eladio. Last time we met, my husband was with me and he had the oportunity to say hi as well. I stoped by intermoleculas loading dock a few months ago to say hi. I called his name but noone was there. The sign said to come back later. Now i know why. My condolences to the family. God bless him. He will be missed.
